"FOR THIS RELIEF. MUCH THANKS."

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE (HAMLET)

Welcome to Laugh on the Loo. We hope you are sitting comfortably and the door is safely locked. Relax and enjoy our First Flush of toilet jokes, but be careful – laughing out loud in the loo may raise some eyebrows.

WARMING UP

Jim and Emily were snogging in a nightclub toilet cubicle when things started to get a bit more frisky.

Emily said, "Stop! I won't have sex with you unless we're engaged."

"Okay," said Jim, reaching out and locking the door. "Happy now?"

ANYONE CAN MASH POTATOES.

TESTING TIMES

Mandy went for some tests at the doctor's.

The nurse handed her a specimen bottle and said, "You can use that room there on your right. The doctor will be with you in a few minutes."

A while later, Mandy came out and handed the empty container back to the nurse, saying, "Thanks, but they had a toilet in there, so I didn't need this after all."

GOLDEN SHOT

Frank was out hunting when he tripped over. His gun discharged, shooting him in the genitals.

Later at the hospital, his doctor said, "I have some good news and some bad news. The good news is that you are going to be okay. The damage was only in your groin area and we were able to remove all of the shot."

"What's the bad news?" asked Frank.

"The bad news is that the shot left a lot of small holes in your member. I'll have to refer you to my sister."

Frank asked, "Why, is your sister a plastic surgeon?"

"No," answered the doctor. "She's a flute player in the London Symphony Orchestra. She's going to teach you where to put your fingers so you don't pee in your eyes."

I WAS WASHING MY HANDS IN THE MEN'S TOILETS. WHEN I REALISED I SHOULD PROBABLY BE USING THE SINK.

FIRST MOVEMENT

An old lady went to her doctor to see what could be done about her constipation.

"It's terrible," she said, "I haven't moved my bowels in a week."

"Have you done anything about it?" asked the doctor.

"Of course," she replied, "I sit in the bathroom for an hour in the morning and again at night."

"No," the doctor said, "I mean do you take anything?"

"Of course," she answered. "I take a book."

SPRAY IT LIKE IT IS

A rather prim lady was in a hotel lift when she suddenly had to fart. Immediately after, she reached into her handbag, pulled out a can of air freshener and started spraying.

Two floors later, a man entered the lift. He started sniffing.

The lady asked, "Do you smell something?"

"Yes, I do," he replied.

"Does it smell like air freshener?"

"Hmmm, no. It smells like someone crapped in a pine tree."

FIXTURES AND FITTINGS

I was redecorating my bathroom and phoned a local bathroom shop to see if they had the model of toilet I was looking for.

"We haven't got one of those I'm afraid," said the assistant.

"That's a shame. Would any of your other branches have one?" I asked.

"OK, I'll call our other branches to see if there's anybody out there sitting on one."

ALWAYS LOOK OUT FOR NUMBER ONE.
DONT TREAD IN NUMBER TWO EITHER.

SPECIAL OFFER

A woman is at the till in a supermarket. After the shop assistant has rung up the total, the woman bends over her trolley to reach her handbag and lets out a loud fart. She stands up abruptly and stares at the shop assistant, who is laughing heartily.

"Stop that!" blurted the woman.

"OK," said the assistant, "which way did it go?"

BANG TO RIGHTS

On the way home from the pub, a man went into an alley to have a pee. A policeman saw him and ran straight over shouting, "Oi! You can't do that here! I'll have to issue you a £75 on the spot fine."

The man took out his wallet and handed over four £20 notes.

The policeman said, "Sorry, but I don't carry any change."

"That's fine, you can keep it," said the man, "I farted a few times as well."

BEDTIME STORY

A young man visited his sister who lived in a small village that seemed trapped in history. Her cottage was tiny, so he shared a bedroom with his young nephew.

When the young man entered the bedroom, he saw the little boy kneeling at the side of the bed with his head bowed. Not wanting to offend the child's religious upbringing, he kneeled at the other side of the bed with his head bowed.

The nephew looked up and said, "What are you doing?"

"The same thing you're doing," replied the uncle.

"Mum will be furious," shrieked the boy. "The potty's on this side."

EAR, 'ERE

Two elderly gentlemen, Arthur and Clive, met for breakfast one morning.

Arthur noticed something odd about Clive's ear. He said, "Clive?"

Clive didn't respond.

"Clive?" said Arthur again, a little louder this time.

"Clive!" Arthur shouted.

"What??" asked Clive.

"Did you know you've got a suppository in your ear?"

"What? A suppository?"

Clive pulled it out, looked it over, and said, "OK. Now I think I know where my hearing aid is."

GOOD HEAVENS

A Sunday School teacher asked his class, "Where do you find God?"

Sam raised his hand and said, "He's in heaven."

Lucy raised her hand and answered, "He's in my heart."

Little Johnny waved his hand and blurted out, "I know, I know! He's in our toilet!"

The teacher was at a loss for a few seconds, then asked, "Johnny, are you sure?"

"Yes sir!" Little Johnny said. "Every morning, my father gets up, bangs on the toilet door, and yells, 'Good Lord, are you still in there?!'"

STUCK UP

Kev and Andy were taking a shower after a game of squash when Kev noticed Andy had a huge cork stuck in his arse.

"Andy," said Kevin, "that cork looks quite uncomfortable. Why don't you take it out?"

"I can't," said a crestfallen Andy. "It's permanently up there."

"What?" said Kevin. "How the hell did that happen?"

Andy explained, "I was walking along the beach and I tripped over an oil lamp. There was a puff of smoke and then a genie came floating out. He said, 'I am a genie. I can grant you just one wish.' I said, 'No shit.'"

ALL RISE

A man walked into a pub and bet the landlord a drink that he could fart "God Save the Queen". The landlord said, "There's no chance you can do that! I'll take that bet."

The man stood on the bar, dropped his trousers, strained and pooped all over the bar.

"What the hell are you doing?" The landlord screamed.

"You've shat all over my bar!"

"Relax," said the man. "Even Frank Sinatra had to clear his throat before he sang."

NO LOYALTY CARD

A new supermarket has just opened.

It has an automatic water mister to keep the produce fresh.
Just before it goes on, you hear the sound of distant thunder and can smell fresh rain.

When you pass the milk chillers, you hear cows mooing and experience the scent of freshly mown grass.

In the meat department, there is the aroma of charcoal-grilled steaks with onions.

When you approach the egg case, you hear hens cluck and cackle, and the air is filled with the pleasing smell of bacon and eggs frying.

The bread department features the tantalising aroma of freshly baked bread and cakes.

I don't buy toilet paper there any more.

OUR LITTLE BOY SAID HE HAD BEEN TO THE TOILET.
I ASKED IF IT WAS A NUMBER ONE OR NUMBER TWO.
HE SAID A NUMBER 14. NOW I'M SCARED TO GO IN THERE.

BLACKADDER: "BALDRICK, HOW DID YOU MANAGE

BALDRICK: "WELL, I HAD TO HAGGLE."

It was ABBA who said, "Money, money, money. Must be funny."

So who are we to argue with Benny and Björn?

MR MONEYBAGS

An elderly gentleman went into a posh London department store with a 20-year-old woman to buy her a £10,000 mink coat.

"Will a cheque be okay?" asked the man.

"Certainly, sir," said the assistant. "But it will have to clear before you can take the coat. Can you come back on Monday for it?"

"No problem," replied the old man, who left with a now beaming girlfriend.

The man returned on the Monday to find a furious sales assistant, "Your cheque was worthless – you don't have two pennies to rub together!"

"Sorry about that," replied the man. "I just wanted to apologise, and to thank you for the greatest weekend of my life."

IMBALANCE SHEET

A junior accountant was hauled in front of his boss, accused of some rather dodgy practices.

"You have heard of ethics, haven't you?" asked the boss.

"Of course," replied the junior, "it's a county in the south east of England."

CRAFTY MUGGERS: 1

An old lady was walking home from her friend's when she was surprised by a mugger.

"Give me all your money!" he shouted.

"I haven't got any," she replied.

"Come here," he said, grabbing at her handbag. He looked through her purse and found nothing. Next he reached into her pockets to try to find some. Then he frisked her everywhere – through her clothes, in her bra and pants – but still found nothing.

Annoyed, the mugger turned away and started to head off.

The old lady called after him, "Come back and keep trying – I can write you a cheque!"

OLD BANKERS NEVER DIE. THEY JUST LOSE INTEREST.

CRAFTY MUGGERS: 2

Two accountants are walking down the road together when they are stopped by a mugger.

The mugger demands they hand over everything they have – money, phones, wallets, rings, the lot.

The first accountant pulls out his wallet and says to the second accountant, "Here's that £50 I owe you."

THE KINDNESS OF STRANGERS

Sitting by the window in her convent, Sister Immaculate noticed a shabbily dressed stranger leaning against a lamp post below.

Quickly she wrote "Don't despair, Sister Immaculate" on a piece of paper, wrapped a £20 note in it and dropped it out of the window.

The stranger picked it up and, with a puzzled expression and a tip of his hat, went off down the street.

The next day Sister Immaculate was told that a man was at the door, insisting on seeing her. She went down and found the stranger waiting. Without a word, he handed her an envelope stuffed with money.

"What's this?" she asked.

"That's the £120 you won. Don't Despair came in at five to one!"

BEST MAN FOR THE JOB

Peter went for an interview for a job as a salesman.

The interviewer decided to give him a test. He pointed at his laptop and said, "Right, try and sell this to me."

Peter thought for a moment, then stood up, put the laptop under his arm and left as quickly as possible.

The interviewer quickly called the mobile number on Peter's CV. "Hey, what are you doing? Bring my laptop back."

Peter replied, "OK. For £200, it's yours."

THINK OF THE SLIPPERS HE COULD BUY

After 50 years of hard work, a man retired with £5,000,000.

He had gained it all through diligence, initiative, skill, devotion to duty, thriftiness, efficiency and shrewd investment.

And the death of his parents, who had left him £4,999,999.

CLEAN LIVING

A man was walking home when a tramp stopped him and asked him for money.

"What do you want the money for? Is it for booze?" asked the man.

"No," said the tramp.

"Is it for cigarettes?"

"No."

"Then do you want to gamble with it?"

"No, none of those things."

"Well," said the man, "you're coming home with me. I'll show my wife what a man looks like when he doesn't drink, smoke or gamble."

POCKET MONEY

"Johnny, if you had £5 and you asked your father for another £5, how many pounds would you have?"

"I would have no pounds."

"You don't know your arithmetic, Johnny."

"You don't know my father, Mrs Anderson."

BLUFFING

Some friends were playing poker in the back room of a pub. The bets were getting higher and higher until Kevin suddenly lost £15,000 on a single hand. When Kevin saw what he'd lost, he had a heart attack and died.

As Pete had won the hand, the others said it was only fair he told Kevin's wife what had happened.

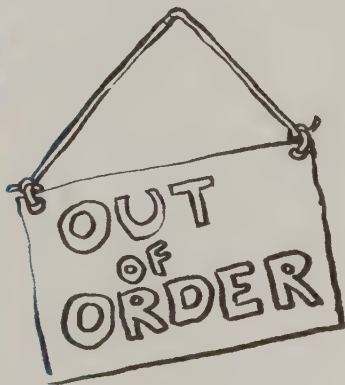

Pete went to see Lucy and was really nervous, not knowing how to break it to her. So he started at the beginning.

"The thing is," said Pete, "we were playing cards with Kevin and he lost £15,000."

"That useless idiot!" exclaimed Lucy. "I hope he drops dead!"

"Fine," said Pete, "I'll be sure to tell him."

EAU DE GROAN

A husband on a business trip decided to buy a gift to take home for his wife. He asked the shop assistant, "How much does this perfume cost?"

"This bottle costs £130," she answered.

"£130!" he exclaimed. "I wasn't planning to spend that much."

So the assistant took out a much smaller bottle and said, "Well this one costs £80."

"That's tiny!" said the man. "Seriously, can you show me something cheap?"

"Sure," she replied, handing him a mirror.

MONKEY BUSINESS

A gorilla walks into a bar and says, "A Scotch on the rocks, please." Then the gorilla hands the barman £20.

The barman thinks that the gorilla won't understand money or the price of drinks and gives him £2 change.

The barman says, "You know, we don't get too many gorillas in here."

The gorilla replies, "Well, at £18 a drink, I'm not coming back either."

YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU

George was a real miser when it came to his money. Just before he died, he said to his wife Wendy, "When I die, I want you to take all my money and place it in the coffin with me. I want to take it all to the afterlife."

He made his wife promise him with all her heart that she would see his wishes through.

Eventually, he died. He was laid out in the coffin, Wendy sitting in the front pew. When the ceremony was over, just before the undertakers got ready to close the coffin, Wendy said, "One last thing."

She took out a shoebox from her bag and placed it in the coffin. Then the undertakers locked the coffin down and took it away.

Wendy's friend said, "I hope that wasn't all George's money in that shoebox?"

Wendy said, "Yes, I promised George. I promised him that I was going to put that money in that coffin with him."

"Every last penny?"

"Every penny," said the wife. "I got it all together, put it into my account and I wrote him a cheque."

SETTLEMENT

"Mr Lawrence, I have reviewed this case very carefully," the divorce court judge said, "and I've decided to give your wife £900 a week."

"That's very fair of you, your honour," the husband said. "And every now and then I'll try to send her a few quid myself."

TWO WHEELS GOOD

Little Johnny asks his dad for a £500 bicycle for his birthday.

Johnny's dad says, "We have a £200,000 mortgage on the house, and I just got fired. Sorry son, but there won't be an expensive bike this year."

Two days later, little Johnny walks out of the house with all his belongings in a suitcase. His dad asks him why he's leaving.

Johnny says, "Early this morning, I was walking past your room and I heard you tell Mum that you were pulling out, and Mum said that you should wait because she was coming too, and there's no bloody way I'm staying here by myself with a £200,000 mortgage!"

CUSTOMER: "HOW DO I STAND FOR A £60,000 LOAN?"

BANK MANAGER: "YOU DONT. YOU GROVEL."

VERY ODD JOB

Steve was in a well-off street looking for odd jobs. He went to the front door of the first house and asked the owner if he had anything for him to do.

"Well, you can paint my porch. How much will you charge?"

Steve replied, "How about £50?"

The man agreed and told him the paint was in the garage. A short time later, Steve came to the door to collect his money.

"You're finished already?" the owner asked.

"Yep," Steve replied. "There was plenty of paint, so I gave it two coats."

Impressed, the man reached in his wallet for the £50.

"And by the way," Steve added, "that's not a Porsche; it's a Ferrari."

A man walked into a bar, ordered 12 shots and started to drink them as fast as he could.

The barman asked, "Why are you drinking so fast?"

The man said, "You would be drinking fast, too, if you had what I had."

The barman asked, "What do you have?"

The guy replied, "50p."

REPENTANCE

A man in Amsterdam feels the need to confess, so he goes to his priest.

"Forgive me, Father, for I have sinned. During WWII, I hid a refugee in my attic."

"Well," answers the priest, "that's not a sin."

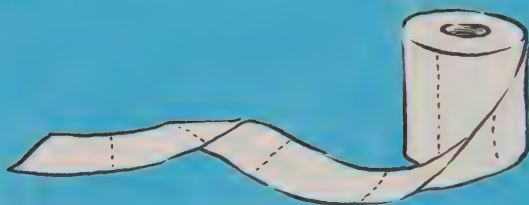

"But I made him agree to pay me 20 guilders for every week he stayed."

"I admit that wasn't good, but you did it for a good cause."

"Oh, thank you, Father. That eases my mind. I have one more question."

"What is that, my son?"

"Do I have to tell him the war is over?"

ILL TAKE TWO

A tourist was in Madrid when he went to a restaurant for dinner. Wanting to try something new, he asked for whatever the house special was. When the dish arrived, he asked the waiter what was in it.

"Señor, these are the cojones," the waiter replied.

"Sorry? What?!" exclaimed the tourist.

"They are the testicles of the bull killed in the ring today," explained the waiter.

The tourist nervously chose to eat the meal, and was surprised to find it quite delicious.

So much so that he returned the following day, and asked for the same dish. When he had finished, the tourist said to the waiter, "I really enjoyed that, but these cojones are much saltier and smaller than the ones I had yesterday."

"True, señor," agreed the waiter. "You see, the bull, he does not always lose."

LAUGH ON THE LOO

THE STEAKS ARE HIGH

Kevin had enjoyed the best steak of his life at the new restaurant in town. He told all of his friends about it, so they decided to go there and see just how big and tasty the steaks were.

Unfortunately, all their steaks were tiny and chewy.

Kevin called over the waiter and said, "When I came here yesterday, you gave me the biggest, juiciest steak I've ever had. Now I've brought my friends here, you serve us these dreadful morsels."

"Yes, sir," replied the waiter. "But yesterday you were sitting by the window."

AFTERNOON WHEEZE

Two ladies were at their favourite cafe, sharing afternoon tea together.

A waitress brought over a large cake for them and placed it on their table.

The first lady picked up a knife and cut the cake in two, then helped herself to what was clearly the larger slice.

The other lady said, "Hmm. If I had cut the cake so badly, I would have offered you first choice."

The first lady replied, "And I would have taken the largest slice, so what are you complaining about?"

RETURNING CUSTOMER

Mike was back in London for the first time in years, so he thought he would visit a restaurant he'd quite enjoyed on a previous trip. It was really busy in there, so it was a while before he could catch the eye of an overworked waiter.

Mike said, "It's been over five years since I first came in here."

"You'll have to wait your turn," replied the angry waiter. "I can only serve one table at a time."

TOUCHING TABLECLOTH

ORDER, ORDER

A man asked his waiter, "Please can I have a rubbery steak with finger marks on it, some lukewarm greasy chips and a portion of watery, overcooked carrots."

The horrified waited replied, "We don't serve food like that here, sir!"

The man answered, "You did yesterday."

I'M EATING TO GET IN SHAPE.
APPARENTLY THAT SHAPE IS A TRIANGLE.

LUNCHBOX

Two lawyers went into a cafe and ordered two coffees. Then both of them opened their briefcases, took out some sandwiches and started to eat.

The waiter marched over and said, "You can't eat your own sandwiches in here!"

The lawyers paused, looked at each other, shrugged their shoulders and without saying a word, exchanged sandwiches.

VEGGING OUT

After 15 years as leader of the local vegetarian society, Bill just couldn't control himself any more. He got an irresistible urge to try some pork to see exactly what it tasted like. So he wouldn't be recognised, he drove 30 miles away from his home town, and headed to the first restaurant.

Bill saw on the menu that their speciality was roasted pig, so that's what he ordered. While he waited, he heard someone call his name, and to his surprise he saw one of his fellow society members walking towards him.

At that same moment, the waiter walked over and placed a giant, covered dish in front of him. The waiter lifted the cloche to reveal a full roasted pig with an apple in its mouth.

"Blimey," said Bill to the member, "all I did was order an apple, and look what it comes with!"

CHOON

Several famous rap and hip-hop stars got together recently and opened up a restaurant in New York.

The only drawback to this 5-star establishment is that there are no main courses offered, just a lot of little samples.

INTERNATIONAL CUISINE

A French man, German man, Scottish man, Italian man, Brazilian man, Chinese man, English man, American man, Japanese man, Indian man, Kenyan man, Irish man, Welsh man, Icelandic man, Australian man and a Belgian man walk into a bar.

The barman says, "Sorry gents, you can't come in here without a Thai."

I WENT FOR A MEAL WITH A CHESS FANATIC THE OTHER DAY. THERE WAS A CHECKED TABLECLOTH ON THE TABLE. IT TOOK THREE HOURS FOR HIM TO PASS THE SALT.

OMM NOMM NOMM

A Zen master walked up to a hot dog stand and said, "Make me one with everything!"

He handed the vendor a £20 note to pay for it, and the vendor immediately started serving another customer.

The Zen master said, "Hey, what about change?"

The vendor replied, "Change comes from within."

GRACE UNDER FIRE

Little Jenny was allowed to stay up to see the guests arrive for her parents' dinner party. Bedtime was getting nearer so Mum suggested Jenny could say grace as a way of saying goodnight to everyone.

"But Mummy," whispered Jenny nervously, "I don't know what to say."

Her mother suggested, "Just repeat what Daddy said before breakfast this morning. You remember; it began with 'Dear God...'"

"Oh, yes!" said Jenny. "I remember now. 'Dear God, why are we having these boring people to dinner tonight?'"

THERE'S ALWAYS ONE

A group of friends were out at a restaurant but one loud, obnoxious member of the party tried to make clever remarks about everyone and everything.

When the waitress served him a piece of meat, he picked it up with his fork, held it up to his friends and smirked, "Is this pig?"

The waitress asked quietly, "Which end of the fork are you referring to?"

LAUGH ON THE LOO

WAITER. WAITER!

We've got to the end of the chapter without a single "Waiter, waiter!" joke. Oh, sorry, I spoke too soon...

Waiter, waiter! There's a dead fly in my soup!
Yes sir, it was allergic to tomatoes.

Waiter, waiter! There's a fly in my soup!
Don't worry sir, the spider on the bread roll will get 'em.

Waiter, waiter! What's this fly doing in my soup?
It looks like the backstroke to me, sir.

Waiter, waiter! There is a fly in my soup!
Sorry sir, I forgot about it when I removed the rat.

Waiter, waiter! There's a bee in my soup.
Yes sir, it's the fly's day off.

Waiter, waiter! Would you please get your thumb out of my soup?
So sorry sir, but I have a boil and the doctor told me to keep it warm.

Waiter, waiter! Do you have frog's legs?
Certainly, sir!
Well hop off and get me a steak!

TOUCHING TABLECLOTH

Waiter, waiter! Bring me a coffee without milk.
We're out of milk, sir. How about coffee without cream?

Waiter, waiter! This soup tastes funny.
Then why aren't you laughing?

Waiter, waiter! Will my pizza be long?
No sir, it will be round!

Waiter, waiter! This coffee tastes like dirt!
Yes sir, that's because it was only ground this morning.

Waiter, waiter! What's wrong with these eggs?
I don't know sir, I only laid the table.

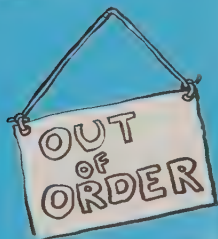

Waiter, waiter! Do you serve crabs?
We serve anyone sir, please take a seat.

Waiter, waiter! Does the pianist play requests?
Yes, sir.
Then ask him to play Angry Birds until I've finished my meal.

Waiter, waiter! This chicken has got one leg longer than the other.
Do you want to eat it or dance with it?

Waiter, waiter! How do you prepare your chickens?
Nothing special sir, we just tell them straight they're going to die.

PARK LIFE

While out one morning in the park, a jogger found a brand new tennis ball and, seeing no one around it might belong to, he slipped it into the pocket of his shorts.

Later, on his way home, he stopped at the pedestrian crossing, waiting for the lights to change.

A woman standing next to him eyed the large bulge in his shorts.

"What's that?" she asked, her eyes gleaming with lust.

"Tennis ball," came the breathless reply.

"Oh," said the woman sympathetically, "that must be painful... I had tennis elbow once."

A football match was in full flow when a fan shouted out,

"Oi, ref! Are you blind?"

The annoyed referee ran towards the stand and asked the fan,

"What did you say?"

"Thought so," said the fan. "Deaf as well."

FORE!

Mike and Paul are having a round of golf when a long funeral procession passes by on the road next to the course.

Mike stops mid-swing, takes off his golf cap, closes his eyes, and bows down in prayer.

Paul says, "That's so touching. You truly are a good man."

Mike replies, "It's only polite. We were married for 40 years."

IN THE ROUGH

A golfer was about to tee off, when a man came up to him and showed him a card that read: "I am a deaf mute. Please may I play through?"

The golfer shook his head angrily. He assumed the man could lip-read and said quite deliberately, "No, you can't. Wait your turn. How dare you try to use your condition to your own advantage."

The deaf man walked away, so the golfer drove his ball on to the green and headed off to finish the hole. Just as he was about to putt, he was struck on the head by a golf ball that knocked him out cold.

A few minutes later, he came to. Opening his eyes he saw the deaf man looking down at him, holding up four fingers.

In big companies, you often find that:

- the staff play football;
- the middle management play tennis;
- the directors play golf.

This shows that as you go up the corporate ladder, the balls reduce in size.

DOWNHILL ALL THE WAY

Two novice skiers were at the top of a mountain ready to start their run. One said to the other, "Do we zigzag down the mountain, or is it best to zagzig?"

"I don't know," replied the second. "Let's just go and see what happens."

They set off and clumsily made their way to the bottom where they came upon a third person. They asked him the very same question, "Do we zigzag, or zagzig?"

The man replied, "How should I know? I'm a tobogganist."

"Ok then," said a skier. "In that case, can I have 20 Marlboro Lights and a box of matches?"

COMMITTEE CALAMITY

"I heard the local sports and social club was looking for a treasurer."

"I thought they hired a new treasurer only a month ago?"

"Yes, that's the one they are looking for."

HORSEPLAY

In the stables, two jockeys were talking.

"Did I hear that the new trainer was in hospital?"

"Yeah. He was boasting that he could train any four-legged animal to win a race. He'd even ride it himself and without a saddle. Then someone gave him a porcupine."

OUT FOR THE COUNT

A boxer went to see his doctor. He said, "Doc, I have trouble sleeping at night. I can lie there for hours without dropping off."

The doctor suggested, "Have you tried counting sheep?"

"Yes," said the boxer, "but every time I get to nine, I stand up."

He pulls the cord for the reserve chute.

Nothing happens.

As he plummets, he passes another man heading skywards. He asks, "Do you know anything about parachutes?"

"No," came the reply. "Do you know anything about gas cookers?"

ODD SHAPED BALLS

A man went to the doctor one day and said, "I've just been playing rugby and when I got home I found that when I touched my legs, my arms, my head and everywhere else, it really hurt."

The doctor said, "You've broken your finger."

STUMPED

Colin was a confirmed cricket fan. Even on the day his wife was giving birth, he was watching the Test Match at Lord's.

The match began, two quick wickets fell. Colin was disappointed, so he decided to check on his wife. He picked up his phone and he meant to call the hospital but accidentally phoned the cricket hotline. He asked the man on the other end, thinking him to be the doctor, "So what's going on?"

The man replied, "It's still happening: two are out, nine are left and the last one was a duck!"

A406

A man arrives at the Pearly Gates and St Peter asks him if he's been a good man, with any acts of kindness or bravery.

The man says, "I was refereeing a match at Wembley between England and Germany. The score was 0-0 and there was only one more minute of play when I awarded a penalty against England."

"Yes," responds St Peter. "That was a real act of bravery. Can you tell me when this took place?"

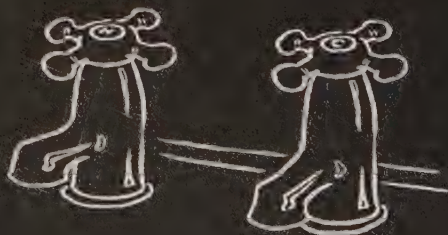

"Certainly," the man replies. "About three minutes ago."

A teacher asks his class if they're all Manchester United fans. Knowing that the teacher is a Man U. fan and it's best to keep him happy, all of the hands go up. Except for one.

"Okay, Ethan. What team are you a fan of?"

"Chelsea."

"Why's that?"

"Well, my parents are both Chelsea fans, so I'm a Chelsea fan too."

"That's not a good answer, Ethan. If your parents were both idiots, would you be an idiot too?"

"No, that would make me a Man United fan!"

ALL IN THE MIND

A psychology lecturer had just finished a class on mental health and was testing his pupils.

Speaking specifically about manic depression, the lecturer asked, "How would you diagnose a patient who walks back and forth screaming at the top of his lungs one minute, then sits in a chair weeping uncontrollably the next?"

A young man in the rear of the room raised his hand and answered, "A football manager?"

HOLIDAY. I'LL TELL YOU WHAT. NEVER AGAIN."

TIM VINE

Holidays and travel are a great way to meet new people and try out new things. Sometimes with unexpected results...

LOST IN TRANSLATION

Lucy and Jack were on a driving holiday, taking in the sights of Wales.

Soon they were approaching Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwlantysiliogogogoch, when an argument broke out about how to pronounce the village name.

They argued for some time until they stopped for lunch.

At the counter, Jack asked the assistant, "Sorry, but before we order, can you help us out? Would you please pronounce where we are very, very slowly?"

The assistant looked puzzled and replied, "Grrrrreeeeegggggsss."

LAP CHANCE

On long coach trip, Mrs Johnson became extremely queasy from motion sickness. She made her way to the on-board toilet, only to find it occupied. She went back to her seat, laid her head back and tried to fight off the nausea.

Unfortunately her condition didn't pass and she threw up on the lap of a man who was dozing next to her.

It was some time later before he awoke. When he did, he was alarmed to find himself covered in vomit.

Mrs Johnson turned to him and said, calmly, "There, there; did your nap make you feel better?"

HOT DATE

A tourist is travelling with a guide through one of the thickest jungles in South America, when he comes across an ancient Mayan temple. The tourist is fascinated by the temple, and asks the guide how old it is.

"This temple is 1,503 years and five months old," replies the guide.

"Interesting," says the tourist. "How can you be so precise?"

"Easy," replies the guide, "when I started work here, the archaeologists said the temple was 1,500 years old, and that was three years and five months ago."

DAI LAUGHING

A Welshman was on holiday in Texas when he visited a diner for lunch and sat at the counter. He struck up a conversation with the guy on the next seat, asking, "So where are you from?"

"God's own country no less," came the reply, in a deep southern drawl.

"Are you sure?" said the Welshman. "You don't seem to have a Welsh accent."

WRECKED

A magician was working on a cruise ship in the Caribbean. The audience was different each week, so he performed the same tricks over and over.

There was only one problem. The captain's parrot saw the show each week and began to understand how the magician did every trick. He started shouting out:

"It's not the same hat!"

"He's hiding the rabbit under the table!"

"All the cards are the same!"

The magician was furious but couldn't do anything – it was the captain's parrot.

One day, halfway through the show, the ship suffered a huge explosion in the engine room and sank. The magician found himself on a piece of wood in the middle of the ocean with the parrot.

They glowered at each other without saying a word. This went on for one day after another. Until the parrot said: "OK, I give up. Where's the boat?"

LOCAL CUSTOMS

After getting off the Eurostar in London on his bicycle, a man was stopped by a customs officer who pointed to two sacks the man had on his shoulders.

"What's in the bags?" asked the officer.

"Sand. Just to remember my time on the lovely beaches of France," said the cyclist.

"Let's take a closer look," replied the officer.

The cyclist cooperated, emptied the bags and, proving they contained nothing but sand, reloaded the bags, put them on his shoulders and continued out of the station.

Two weeks later, the same thing happened. Again the officer demanded to see the two bags, which again contained nothing but sand. This went on every couple of weeks for six months, until one day the cyclist with the sand bags failed to appear.

Some time later, the officer happened to meet the cyclist in a pub. "Look, I'm off duty now," said the officer. "We knew you were smuggling something into the UK. What was it?"

"Bicycles."

OFF THE RAILS

A large, two-engined tourist train was crossing Australia from east to west. After it had gone a third of the way, one of the engines broke down. The engineer thought they would be fine and carried on at half power.

Once the train had gone on for another third of the journey, the other engine broke down, and the train came to a standstill.

The engineer decided he should inform the passengers about why the train had stopped, and made the following announcement:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I have some good news and some bad news. The bad news is that both engines have failed, and we will be stuck here for some time. The good news is that you decided to take the train and not fly."

CAMEL TOW

A British husband and wife were sitting in a cafe while on holiday in the Middle East. A local man approached the wife, looked her up and down, and said, "Is he your husband?"

"Yes," she replied.

He turned to the husband and said, "I'll give you 100 camels for her."

The husband looked stunned, paused for quite some time and finally he replied, "She's not for sale."

After the local man left, the somewhat angry wife asked her husband what took him so long to answer.

He replied, "I was trying to figure out if I could get 100 camels back home."

BEAR NECESSITIES

Two men are on a camping holiday in the woods. One day, they go for a hike when they see a bear in the distance, running towards them.

They turn and start running away. But then one of them stops, takes off his hiking boots, takes his trainers from his bag and starts putting them on instead.

"What the hell are you doing?" says the other man. "Do you think you will outrun the bear with those?"

"I don't have to outrun the bear," he says. "I just have to outrun you."

WHAT HAPPENS IN VEGAS

Barry and Brian checked in to their Vegas hotel for the weekend. They went up to their rooms to unpack, agreeing to meet up at the blackjack tables in half an hour.

Barry was first downstairs, with Brian nowhere to be seen. Barry waited for another half an hour, but there was still no sign of Brian.

Barry picked up a phone in the lobby and called Brian's room. Brian answered, in somewhat of a panic, that he couldn't get out of his room.

"What do you mean, you can't get out of your room?" asked Barry.

Brian replied, "There are only three doors in here. One is the bathroom, one is the wardrobe and the last one has a sign on it that says 'Do Not Disturb'."

BLUE-SKY THINKING

"Oh," said the Englishman, "then how on earth do you start a conversation?"

PARCHED

A tourist gets separated from his tour group in the Sahara desert. After wandering for some time he falls to the ground, desperate for water, and begins crawling along.

He soon comes across a man on a camel. He asks him through his parched lips, "Water... please... can you give... water... "

"I'm sorry," replies the man on the camel, "I don't have any water with me. But I'd be delighted to sell you a tie."

"A tie?" whispers the man. "I need water!"

"They're only 500 dinars apiece."

"I need water."

"Okay, okay; two for 700 dinars. Best I can do."

"Please! I need water!" the man exclaims.

"I don't have any water, all I have are ties. If you want water, head west," says the salesman, pointing west as he heads off into the distance.

The man follows the new direction, crawling through the desert until he can barely move. Then he sees a welcome sight: a building. He heads towards it with his last bit of strength and knocks on the door.

It opens to reveal a rather swanky restaurant.

"Water... can I get... water," the dying man pleads.

"I'm sorry, sir," replies the waiter, "I can't let you in without a tie."

ANSWERS

1. C. Three years – plenty of time to read this book a few times over!
2. A. Psycho – Marion is seen flushing a torn-up note down the loo. It was almost as controversial as the shower scene at the time.
3. D. A row of portable toilets – a pilot lost control of his Cessna 182 during take-off. It hit a fence, flipped over and landed on a “cushion” of portable loos stored by a runway.
4. D. Around 90% – at least the fish who live in and around sewers have a great supply of anti-depressants.
5. All of them! Sitting on the throne is clearly not a safe place for those who, well, sit on the throne.
6. A. The first in the row – it’s the least-used cubicle and the first one cleaned.
7. D. On a kitchen cloth – in fact, out of the four, the toilet seat is likely to have the fewest bacteria. I’m not going to start cutting my vegetables on the loo, though.
8. B. Lady Gaga – though she has worn dresses made of just about everything else.
9. A. Toilets that use more than six litres of water in a flush – the Energy Policy Act of 1992 made it a legal requirement for all newly manufactured and installed toilets to be low flush. We made the rest up, but there is still a good chance that they are on the statute books in one state or other.
10. C. House of poo – in old English, dunna means “dung” and ken means “house”. I suspect anyone called Ken is glad it’s not the other way round.

He knocked again, louder this time. There was still no answer.

Finally, he hammered at the door as hard as he could and heard a voice from inside the spaceship saying, "Who's there?"

WATER FAILURE

A student was not doing very well on their chemistry course. They had been told by their lecturer that they had to get at least one question correct on their next exam or they would be kicked off the course.

The student sat down to the exam and looked through the questions. They all seemed impossible until they saw the last question:

"If H_2O is water, what is H_2O_4 ?"

The student thought for a moment, then wrote, "For drinking, washing, and cleaning."

HEAVY BREATHING

I recently read an article in Science Week about how we treat asthma.

It said that scientists at Cambridge have discovered that certain dermatological products, such as facial creams, can soothe the rough epithelium of the trachea that is common in those who suffer from regular asthma attacks.

Apparently, the cream acts on the deep layers of tissue in the mouth and trachea, reducing inflammation permanently.

And that is why you found the words "rough", "deep", "throat" and "facial" in my internet search history.

FOWL PLAY

Scientists at Rolls-Royce simulate bird strikes by firing dead chickens at their aircraft engines from a specially designed cannon.

American engineers were keen to run such tests and bought a similar cannon from Rolls-Royce. When the cannon was fired, the engineers watched in horror as the chicken flew out of the barrel, crashed into their toughest military aircraft engine and smashed it to smithereens. Each test drew the same result.

The horrified Americans sent Rolls-Royce the film of the disastrous results of the experiment, and begged the British engineers for suggestions.

Rolls-Royce responded with a one-line memo:

"Defrost the chicken."

A chemistry professor wanted to teach the 5th year class a lesson about the evils of alcohol, so he produced an experiment that involved a glass of water, a glass of whisky and two worms.

"Now, class. Observe closely the worms," said the professor, putting a worm first into the water. The worm in the water writhed about, as happy as a worm in water could be.

The second worm, he put into the whisky. It writhed painfully, and quickly sank to the bottom, dead as a doornail.

"Now, what lesson can we derive from this experiment?" the professor asked.

Little Johnny, who naturally sits in back, raised his hand and wisely responded...

"Drink whisky and you won't get worms!"

POLITE LINE-UP

A young man excitedly tells his mother he's fallen in love and is going to get married.

He says, "Just for fun, Mother, I'm going to bring over three women and you try to guess which one I'm going to marry."

The mother agrees. The next day, he brings three beautiful women into the house and sits them down on the couch, and they chat for a while. He then says, "Okay, Mother. Guess which one I'm going to marry."

She immediately replies, "The redhead in the middle."

Stunned, the young man says, "That's amazing. You're right. How did you know?"

She replies, "I don't like her."

"Entschuldigung, können sie Deutsch sprechen?" he asks.

The two Englishmen just stare at him.

"Excusez-moi, parlez-vous français?"

The two continue to stare.

"Parlate italiano?"

No response.

"Hablan ustedes español?"

Still nothing.

The Swiss guy drives off, extremely disgusted.

The first Englishman turns to the second and says, "Y'know, maybe we should learn a foreign language..."

"Why bother?" says the second. "That bloke knew four languages, and it didn't do him any good."

COUNTRY WAYS

A ventriloquist was out walking in the countryside when he came upon a young farmhand.

The ventriloquist said: "I reckon I can make your horse talk."

Farmhand: "Shut up, the horse can't talk."

Ventriloquist: "OK, watch this. Hi horse. How does he treat you?"

"Horse": "Oh, he is good to me. He gives me food, water and he keeps me out of the sun."

Ventriloquist: "I bet I can make your dog talk too."

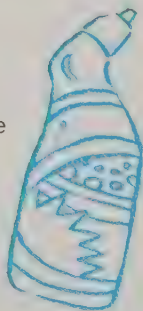

Farmhand: "Stop it, the dog can't talk."

Ventriloquist: "Let's try. Dog, how are you? Does he treat you well?"

"Dog": "He does look after me. He gives me food, water and takes me for long walks around the farm."

Ventriloquist: "I'll bet I can make your sheep talk."

Farmhand: "Stop right there – the sheep is a liar!"

CASH BACK

Greg was away on a business trip when one evening he stumbled upon a brothel. As he left, he was surprised when he was handed £1,000. He couldn't believe his luck, so rather than question it, he just went back to his hotel.

The following night, he decided to return to the brothel. And once again, on leaving, they handed him £1,000.

On the third night, as Greg left, he was disappointed when they gave him nothing. "What about the £1,000?" he asked.

"Sorry mate," came the reply. "Tonight we weren't filming."

THE HOPE THAT A DOCTOR MIGHT TAKE HER OUT

RUFF COMPETITION

A man went to visit a friend and was amazed to find him playing chess with his dog. He watched the game in astonishment for a while.

"I can hardly believe my eyes!" he exclaimed. "That's the smartest dog I've ever seen."

"Nah, he's not so smart," the friend replied. "I've beaten him three games out of five."

LAUGH ON THE LOO

LABOURING IT

Mary is suffering a lot of pain while giving birth so the doctor gets out some pills. He tells her each pill takes away a quarter of the pain, but sends it to the father of the baby.

So Mary takes one and her husband says, "Women are wimps, I feel no pain."

Then she takes another and her husband says, "Seriously? This doesn't hurt."

Mary takes two more and has no problem having the baby, and neither her nor her husband are in pain.

Two days later they come home with the baby and the milkman is dead on their doorstep.

YOU WERE TOO LAZY TO READ THAT NUMBER.

THE ACCUSED

An MP was in court, charged with sexually harassing a member of his staff. When he took the stand, his defence lawyer asked him exactly what happened.

"Well, I think my personal assistant must be a little deaf. I just asked her to 'Hold my calls and sack my cook'."

WATERING THE ROSES

A little old lady is walking down the street dragging two large bin bags behind her. One of the bags rips and some £20 notes fall out on to the pavement.

A policeman stops her and says, "Excuse me madam, there are £20 notes falling out of your bag."

"Oh, silly me," said the little old lady. "I'd better go back and see if I can find them. Thanks for telling me."

"Well now, not so fast," says the policeman. "How did you get all that money? You didn't steal it, did you?"

"Oh, no," said the little old lady. "You see, my garden is right next to the football ground. At half-time, a lot of fans come and pee through the fence into my flower beds. So, I stand behind the fence with my shears. Each time some bloke sticks his thing through the fence, I say, '£20 or off it comes.'"

"Well, that seems only fair," laughs the policeman. "Oh, by the way, what's in the other bag?"

"Well, not everybody pays."

EXCUSE ME

A lecturer reminded her class of the following day's exam.

"Right you lot, I won't tolerate any excuses for you not being here tomorrow. I might consider a nuclear attack or a serious personal injury, illness, or a death in your immediate family, but that's it, no other excuses whatsoever!"

A student at the back of the room raised his hand and asked, "What would you say if tomorrow I said I was suffering from complete and utter sexual exhaustion?"

The entire class started snickering.

When silence was restored, the lecturer smiled knowingly at the student, shook her head and sweetly said, "Well, I guess you'd have to write the exam with your other hand."

I SAY NO TO ALCOHOL: IT JUST DOESN'T LISTEN.

BRIEFS

Ben went into a solicitor's office and asked about his rates.

"It's £300 for three questions," replied the solicitor.

"Isn't that quite expensive?" asked Ben.

"Yes, it is," said the solicitor. "And what is your third question?"

HEADLINES

Two blokes are at the pub watching the news, when the newsreader announces, "Two Brazilian men die in a skydiving accident."

The first blokes says, "That's horrific! It should be banned! So many men dying that way!"

The second bloke says, "Well, yeah it's sad, but they were skydiving; they knew it was risky."

After a few moments, the first bloke says, "Ok then, exactly how many is a Brazilian?"

WANNA CRACKER?

A preacher is buying a parrot.

"Are you sure it doesn't scream, yell or swear?" asks the preacher.

"Oh absolutely. It's a religious parrot," the shopkeeper assures him. "Do you see those strings on his legs? When you pull the right one, he recites the Lord's Prayer, and when you pull on the left he recites the 23rd Psalm."

"Wonderful!" says the preacher. "But what happens if you pull both strings?"

The parrot screeches, "I fall off my perch, you idiot!"

HOT TOPICS

A boy is about to go on his first date and is nervous about what to talk about, so he asks his father for advice.

"Son, there are three subjects that always work: food, family and philosophy."

On the date, there is silence until the lad remembers his father's advice and asks the girl, "Do you like spinach?"

She says "No" and the silence returns.

After a few more uncomfortable minutes, the boy tries his father's second suggestion. He asks, "Do you have a brother?"

Again, the girl says "No" and there is silence once more.

The boy then plays his last card. He thinks of his father's advice and asks the girl the following question: "If you had a brother, would he like spinach?"

ONE PAGE CV

I seem to have trouble holding down a job.
Here's my story so far:

I got a job fixing kilns. Within a week I was fired.

I joined the army and immediately got my marching orders.

I got a job performing circumcisions. On my first day I slipped and got the sack.

On my first day at the car factory, my colleague was asked to attach the bonnet and I got the boot.

I got a job as a taxi driver. I drove customers away.

I was ready to paint the entrance signs but they showed me the exit.

I got a job as a tree feller. They gave me the axe.

I got a job as a professional bungee jumper. They let me go.

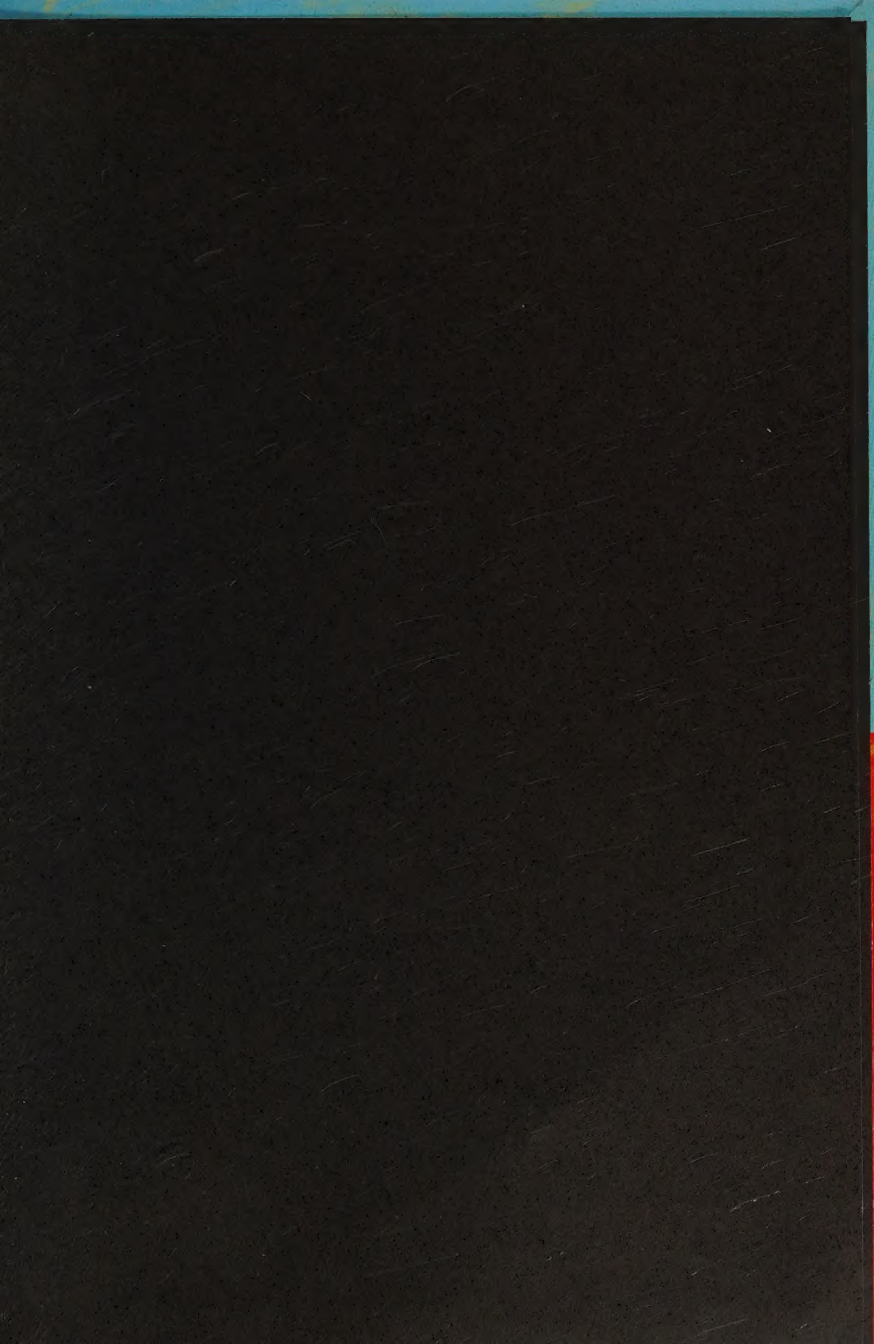

I arrived to fit a letterbox. They soon showed me the door.

On my first day as a professional poker player I was given my cards.

I got a job packing bags for a butcher. On my first day he gave me the chop.

I once managed a prostitute tug-of-war team until I got the heave-ho.

I got a job testing nylon carpets for static electricity. At the end of my first day I was discharged.
